

Smart Medicine Expert Care

Stony Brook University Hospital

Stony Brook University Hospital is the place where "smart medicine and expert care" come together to provide excellence in patient care, education, research and community service.

As Long Island's premier academic medical center, the hospital serves as the region's only tertiary (high-level) care center and Level 1 trauma center. It is home of the Long Island Cancer Center, the Stony Brook University Hospital Heart Center and the Center for Perinatal and Neonatal Intensive Care. With an exceptional healthcare team and advanced technology, the hospital also plays a pivotal role in leading research and pioneering techniques, and provides training for medical and other healthcare professionals.
