

Women in Medicine Program

Stony Brook University Medical Center

To share, to connect, and to grow.

What are the activities of the WIM program?

Building Bridges is a monthly informal networking and skill-building session open to all faculty. This session is truly a give-and-take experience where we share various areas of expertise among each other. Guest speakers and presenters are sometimes invited.

The Annual Women in Medicine Research Day is held in April each year. CDs of the program, poster abstracts, and key note addresses are available. This program attempts to showcase the outstanding research activities of women in medicine at Stony Brook.

We also sponsor women faculty for appropriate faculty development seminars and national awards.

Awards, Discussions,
Learning Sessions,
Networking, and Fun!

If you would like to participate and come for a Building Bridges session, please contact Caroline Lazzaruolo at 638-2005 or Dr. Latha Chandran latha.chandran@stonybrook.edu.

Join us at any of our events throughout the year. Our calendar of events can be found on our website at: www.stonybrookmedicalcenter.org/facultyaffairs Under 'For Current Faculty,' click on 'Women in Medicine'!
